Moment of Zen

This stunning bathroom emphasizes Asian inspired pavilion style architectural integrity and maintains the Pacific Northwest longhouse and Japanese structural design details. The designer incorporated a sitting area next to the tub that serves as an inviting place to read, enjoy a glass of wine or converse with someone soaking in the freestanding, contemporary slipper tub. A column integrated to provide a plumbing chase for both the shower and the tub is clad in beautifully textured glass accent tile. The small platform at the base of the plumbing column provides additional seating. The exterior sconces are installed in the wet location, lighting the bath and shower, while an Afromosia wood valance conceals a track that the pendants hang from. Frosted glass windows provide natural light and privacy. The resulting space is an extremely cohesive blend of centuries, respecting original architecture and structure, while implementing spatial changes that cater to the client's contemporary lifestyle.
